COLUMBUS, Sept. 30.—Ohio has the largest apprenticeship vocational program in the nation with 6,000 apprentices, Joseph R. Strobel, state vocational director, disclosed today.

YEGGS GET $5,000 IN POTTERY SAFE

EAST PALESTINE, Sept. 30.—Thieves entered the W. S. George pottery plant office sometime Saturday night or early Sunday, broke into the office safe and stole an estimated $5,000 in cash, police said today.

Authorities suspected an "inside job" in the burglary as the plant was in operation all evening and entrance apparently was made by someone well acquainted with conditions there.

The safe was turned over and checked open sometime between 11 p. m. Saturday and 2 a. m. Sunday, police said.

Plent officials said there was at least $5,000 in currency and change in the safe.

At the China Novelty Co., $80 was missing.

3 Drunken Drivers Held Over Weekend

Three motorists were arrested here over the weekend on charges of driving while intoxicated bringing to eight the number of drivers apprehended here this month on similar charges, Police Chief Nerr Gaunt said.

Frank Farmerie of Pittsburgh, James Anderson of Sebring and Jack Constantine of Pittsburgh were arrested by police and fined $100 and costs by Mayor R. R. Johnson. All pleaded guilty.

Anderson was arrested following an accident on E. Pershing st. at the intersection of S. Lundy ave. at 7:05 p. m. Sunday.

Police said his car rammed the rear of a parked car, owned by Russell Morrison, 361 N. Lincoln ave., damaging both cars slightly.

The other two men were arrested late Saturday evening and early Sunday.

WARSHIPS ON POLICY TRIP

Forrestal Explains Purpose of Cruise Into Mediterranean

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Secretary of the Navy Forrestal declared today that United States naval forces are in the Mediterranean to help carry out American foreign policy.

And they will be there for some time to come, the cabinet officer made plain in an unusual policy statement.

Simultaneously, it was learned that when the Aircraft Carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt is withdrawn from the troubled sea it will be replaced promptly by another flat top. Previous emphasis on the FDR's Mediterranean cruise has been on the "goodwill" theme.

U. S. Backs Turkey

Forrestal's policy declaration was released as the American government indicated full backing to Turkey in that country's resistance to Russian demands on the Dardanelles, (2) studied means to aid the present Greek government in its troubles with Russian-supported neighbors and (3) hoped uncertainty for a peaceful settlement with Yugoslavia over the disposition of Trieste.

Persons familiar with the reasons behind the statement said it was drafted about a week ago and hence was not inspired by the fresh Dardanelles conflict or other current controversies.

However, it gave the American people and foreign governments one of the simplest statements of the reasons and purposes underlying the presence of American warships in the Mediterranean to be made since the end of the war.

Two Reasons Given

"Today," Forrestal said, "the United States navy is continuing to maintain forces in the eastern Atlantic and the Mediterranean sea for the following specific purposes: "First, to support the Allied occupation forces and the Allied military government in the discharge of their responsibilities in the occupied areas of Europe.

"Second, to protect U. S. interests and to support U. S. policies in the area."

In the last year or so official comments on the presence of American warships in the Mediterranean have been generally confined either to explaining specific missions in terms of goodwill trips or errands of mercy, or to showing that naval operations were helping the United States carry out its occupation policies.

Danube Navigation Freedom Is Approved By "Big Four"

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, Sept. 30.—The peace conference's Balkan Economic commission today wrote broad guarantees for freedom of Danube navigation into the peace treaty with Romania, overriding strong Russian objections, after a plea by U. S. Sen. Arthur A. Vandenberg to adopt such guarantee.

At the same time the commission inserted provisions for a Danubian conference of all Riparian states, together with the United States, Russia, Britain and France, within six months from the time the treaty takes effect, to draft definite traffic rules applicable to all traffic on Europe's greatest inland waterway.

The decision was taken by an 8 to 5 vote on East-West lines with one abstention.

French Amendment

The proposal adopted was a French amendment, strongly backed by the United States and Britain.

Russia's delegate had insisted no mention of the Danube should be made in the treaty. The decision was forewarned when the commission voted 9 to 5 against the Soviet proposal. The French amendment makes freedom of navigation on the Danube binding upon Romania.

The military commission, meanwhile, adopted the military limitations sections of the treaties with Hungary and Finland.

Hungary was limited to an army of 65,000 and an air force of 5,000 men with 70 combat craft and 20 trainers and was forbidden to possess or construct self-propelled or guided missiles or submarines. The prohibition against atomic research written into the other treaties also was adopted.

Finland was limited to a land army of 34,000, a navy of 4,500 men and 10,000 tons and an air force of 3,000 men and 60 craft.

Vandenberg opened the United States' campaign in the Balkan Economic commission on one of the most controversial issues remaining before the treaty convales.

His statement drew immediate support from Britain's Gladwyn Jebb. Echoing Russia's position on the issue, Yugoslav Delegate Stanjko Simic declared that peace treaties were not the place to establish a regime for the river.

Cites U. S. Interest
Vandenberg said the Danube could not prosper divided into "watertight compartments" by "various uncoordinated, restrictive and discriminatory administrations," and declared, "if we intend that the Danube shall resume freedom hereafter established and shall develop in peace and progress, we must say so now."

He told the commission the United States had a direct temporary interest in the Danube because of American occupation zones in Austria and Germany and a broader long-range interest because "avoiding international-made barriers which invited discrimination and friction" was important to peace.

The conference, heading into its last week of committee work, was confronted today with showdown fights on all the touchy issues which delegates put off to the end—including the key question of Trieste.

Two Children Drowned, In Tub, Mother Arrested
CLEVELAND, Tex., Sept. 30.—A 30-year-old mother was charged with murder in connection with the drownings of her two children, but county officials said, she seemed unaware of the tragedy.

Mrs. A. H. Brent, wife of a Shell Oil Co. employee now in Maricao, Venezuela, was charged yesterday with two counts of murder after the children Linda, 3, and James, 18-months old, were found submerged in a bathtub.

At the jail, county officials reported Mrs. Brent to be hysterical and seemingly unaware of the tragedy.

Jeff Cochran, county attorney, said neighbors, attracted by frantic screams from the children, forced their way into the Brent home and found the children in one foot of water in the tub. Mrs. Brent, he said, was found sitting on the bathroom floor.

"She still doesn't know that her children are dead," he said.

Army Boosts Draft Call For October

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The Army called on Selective Service today for an October draft quota of 35,000 men, up 10,000 from September.

There was no change in the age group to be called—19 through 29.

The draft quota was raised without explanation on the heels of War department orders to speed the release of some 365,000 non-volunteer enlisted men.

Eisenhower Flays World Pessimism

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—Gen. Eisenhower, back in Berlin where the Four Big powers are cooperating in running occupied Germany, said today there was "too much pessimism in the world about international relations and too much discounting of progress that is being made."

"We have evidence here," he told a news conference, "that international cooperation is not a dead issue in the world, but something that is growing and will continue to grow."

Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee, U. S. commander in the Mediterranean theater, told newsmen yesterday the chief of staff had abandoned plans for visiting Austria and then Italy on this trip. The plans had called for Eisenhower to go to Vienna Oct. 15.

Eisenhower told the news conference he had not definitely decided to cancel the proposed visits, but that "I doubt I'll be able to visit all the places I want to" because of prior commitments in Britain.

EX-WAC CAPTAIN GETS FIVE YEARS

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 30.—Former WAC Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant was convicted today by a military court of stealing $1,500,000 worth of Hesse family jewels, and was sentenced to five years imprisonment at hard labor, with dishonorable discharge.

Mrs. Durant's husband, Col. Jack Durant, and Maj. David Watson, are awaiting trial on complicity charges in the theft of the jewels from Kronberg castle.

Mrs. Durant displayed no emotion as the nine-officer court handed down its verdict of guilty on three counts of larceny, embezzlement and being absent without leave from her military post.

The 43-year-old defendant had been in charge of the Hesse family castle, used as an American army officers' club, last winter when the jewels disappeared. The Durants were married on their return to the United States from Germany.

Mrs. Durant's attorney pleaded that she was being made the "scapegoat" for all the looting done by American soldiers in occupied Germany.

PEDESTRIAN AUTO VICTIM

William Yaeger, 72, County Home Inmate, Walks Into Path of Car

William Yaeger, 72, an inmate of the Mahoning county home near Canfield, was killed instantly at 7:35 p. m. Sunday on Route 46, a mile north of Canfield, when he was struck by a car as he walked across the road to attend services at the North church, state highway patrolmen said.

One other traffic mishap occurred over the weekend, injuring three persons.

The car which struck Yaeger was driven by Carl F. Eberle of Zelle-nople and was travelling west on Route 46, patrolmen said.

Visibility was poor, because of rain and fog, and the victim evidently stepped directly into the path of the car. He died of a fractured skull and other injuries. Yaeger was not married.

His body was taken to the Williams funeral home, Canfield, where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday.

Auto Overtakes

Mary G. Snedden, 29, of Detroit, lost control of her car on Route 30, five miles south of Lisbon Sunday, swerved off the side of the road and overturned, injuring two passengers in her car.

Mrs. Margaret Snedden, 66, also of Detroit, suffered abrasions of the legs and Susan Wilbert, 24, of Detroit, received a fractured collarbone. Both were treated at Salem City hospital.

Light Frost In Area Is Forecast

There was a touch of November chill in Salem on the last day of September, a direct result of cold rains which fell here Sunday.

Scattered frosts are forecast in the state tonight. Garden vegetables and flowers are expected to be affected where frost occurs, but corn is reported sufficiently matured to withstand the low fall temperatures.

Sunday's minimum temperature was 41, while the thermometer indicated 70 as the maximum. It was 55 at noon today.

In addition to the local aggregation, the Alliance High band was also present. The two bands each performed during the halftime period.

Declared Guilty of Waging Aggressive War, Other Crimes

By WES GALLAGHER AND THOMAS A. REEDY

NUERNBERG, Sept. 30.—The international military tribunal declared today the initiation of war "is the supreme crime," and indicated strongly that 22 Nazi ring-leaders it has tried on war crimes charges over the last 10 months would be convicted—as charged—of conspiring to commit that crime.

Final verdicts and sentences will be delivered tomorrow, when the tribunal concludes the reading of BERLIN, Sept. 30.—The Allied control council for Germany decided today that two newspaper correspondents from each of four occupying powers would be admitted to witness the executions of Nazi defendants who may be sentenced to death by the international military tribunal at Nuernberg.

Details of the council's decisions were lacking at present. The council is charged with carrying out the court's judgments.

Its 100,000-word judgment on the evidence presented by prosecutors for Britain, France, Russia and the United States since the trial began on Nov. 20, 1945.

Overwhelming Evidence

The tribunal described as "quite overwhelming" the evidence adduced on the four main counts in the indictment, and while naming no names in the early stages, ruled that aggressive war is a crime, that conspiracies existed to wage aggressive war, and that war crimes and crimes against humanity had been committed.

It acquitted the German general staff and high command, the S. A. (brownshirts) and the Reich cabinet of charges that they were criminal organizations, but "certain groups" of the leadership, the SS (Elite guard), the SD (a department which operated a spy system) and the Gestapo were convicted on that charge.

Before the reading of the judgment was an hour and a half under way, Herman Goering, once the No. 2 Nazi, virtually conceded he was on the way to the gallows by telling defense lawyers:

"I did not expect that they would go through all this to kill us."

Most of the defendants appeared reconciled to the belief they would be condemned to death.

The tribunal rejected flatly the plea of some of the defendants that their acts had been committed under orders from Adolf Hitler.

"Hitler could not make aggressive war by himself; he had to have the cooperation of German military leaders, diplomats, and business," the judgment said. "With the knowledge of his aims, they gave their cooperation and made themselves party to the plan he had initiated. That they were assigned to their tasks by a dictator does not absolve them from their responsibility for their acts."

Defendants Silent

Herman Goering and his 20 colleagues (Martin Bormann was tried in absentia) sat grim and silent as the court unfolded the long opinion.

All the defendants leaned forward listening intently, except Rudolf Hess.

CONSTRUCTION IN AUGUST HAS GAIN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Home builders started work on 101,000 new dwellings in August and completed 62,800. Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt reported today.

The record of completions was better than July's, but the number of starts fell off 1400. Hence Wyatt's August report lacked last month's prediction that the country would meet the goal of 1,200,000 veterans' homes started this year.

Wyatt reported that manpower shortages worsened in the construction trades with carpenters and bricklayers in the shortest supply. Also the labor scarcity reached into "an increasing number of areas."

In the eight months of the housing program, 708,100 units of all kinds were put under construction. The completions in eight months totaled 350,000.

Thick, Juicy Votes

If the meat problem had been plotted in advance to embarrass the Democratic party, things couldn't have turned out worse.

But few tears are going to be shed for party members now giving President Truman the elbow in anger over the thick, juicy votes they see slipping away from them if thick, juicy steaks don't come back before election day.

These are the same politicians who have been in the thick of a debate over regimentation for more than a decade. For many of them the result of the government's attempt to regiment the meat industry is the whirlwind they sowed by their advocacy of a managed economy.

These are the same politicians who were reluctant to give up the price and profit controls which expired last July 1. Many of them sided with the Truman administration in its insistence on continuing the controls in the name of a war emergency which the controls themselves had helped to prolong.

These are the same politicians who have sneered and sniffed at every suggestion that the people's composite intelligence is a better guarantee of a reasonably orderly system of economics in the long run than the claimed intelligence of individuals and committees in Washington.

They are the same politicians who swung the cudgels of ridicule and hate against everybody who challenged the New Deal credo that a managed economy is the solution to all the nation's problems. Thanks to them, an acute meat shortage has been managed on the eve of an election in which voters will express their opinion not of theories but of existing conditions. With whatever grace they can muster, the politicians who have been voting for this sort of thing should quit squawking and explain to their constituents that they planned it this way. The least they can be now is consistent. It's their only chance.

Hut, Sweet Hut

Almost everything about the housing shortage is uncertain, except this: the shortage isn't getting shorter.

Whatever relief has been made available in the form of temporary housing hasn't added anything to the sum total of housing suitable for citizens of the United States. Huts are no solution for a housing problem. They are a makeshift while a solution is being found. It may be feasible for a veteran of World War II to continue to live in a barracks a year, perhaps several years, but in the United States life in a barracks is a poor substitute for life in permanent quarters. Permanent, not temporary, housing is the need.

This is almost too obvious to need restatement—almost, but not quite. The United States, having talked much about housing, has been able to do little. The government's interest in housing has expressed itself so often in makeshifts they are becoming an ominous sign of frustration. Housing—real housing, permanent housing, the kind that adds something to the national standard of living—is not being realized.

There is more than a political dig in the Republican party's wisecrack about "two families in every garage." There is a disquieting omen of disaster ahead unless it becomes practical again for housing—real housing—to come from the source that has supplied housing in the past—investors looking for a place to put long-term capital at a fair return. To them housing was something built to last and to give satisfaction, not a hut to be erected today and torn down next year for removal to some other point of crisis in a housing shortage.

If Russia Only Knew

Russian political leaders preach, perhaps even believe, that the Soviet Union is in peril of being surrounded and destroyed by capitalist enemies. According to their reasoning, Russia must destroy or be destroyed. Ultimately, there must be a battle of survival. In the doctrine of Russian Communist leaders there is no allowance for tolerance of non-Communist societies. They must be overthrown. Otherwise, they will overthrow Russia.

This is the conviction which has been reflected or expressed directly in every act of postwar Russian diplomacy and action. It is the credo that has started talk of another war at a time when even the mention of war is a death knell for war-weary nations. It is the most formidable obstacle to international understanding, the thing that has caused fear of Russia in the United States though Russian conditions suggest pity as a more proper sentiment. Russia's exclusionism is delaying the peace, spreading distrust among other governments and making inevitable a revival of balance-of-power politics against the time when it finally must explode into armed action.

From their own position it may actually be impossible for Russian political leaders to realize what is wrong with the Communist party doctrine which calls for destruction of everything non-Communist. They cannot understand, because they do not know, that the imperialism they think of as the handmaiden of capitalism has ceased to exist. Even the capitalism they have in mind no longer exists. If the Russians only knew, or dared admit, what they could have learned since their revolution by reading any American or English newspapers, the looming threat of World War III could be dissolved in the bright light of a little ordinary truth. It is ignorance that is threatening future peace. Russia, which has never practiced communism, is being conditioned mentally to go to war to protect what it doesn't believe in against something that has disappeared.

An American Error Too

Andrei Vishinsky, stand-in for M. Molotov while the latter is absent from the Paris peace conference, is wrong of course in saying the United States was making money during the war. He was trying to prove that Russia should have the lion's share of all "compensation" from defeated Balkan countries and pressed his point too hard. If the United States could make money out of war in the Balkans or anywhere else it would be the greatest trick of all time and even communists would have to see merit in capitalism.

The curious thing is that so many Americans are guilty of believing the United States did make money during the war. They believe this because a vast deal of money changed hands during the war years. But money is not wealth. It is to wealth what poker chips are to money—a system of book-keeping. The United States sacrificed an enormous part of its national wealth to World War II. The wealth is gone forever. As a result of the disruption, the value of the poker chips is in what could be called a state of flux. Optimists are beginning to believe they may stabilize themselves at about half what they were worth before; pessimists think it will be worse than that. This does not mean the United States has lost half its wealth, but it is a fair indication what the ordinary run of Americans think about the notion that the country is richer because it is poorer.

THE ability to maintain composure, harmony, balance and amiability in the face of excitement, surprise and perhaps disruption and a sudden turn of events, may be the determining factor in switching possible adversity into happiness, concrete gains, desirable good will, personal popularity and prestige.

Business, labor and finances, as well as the home or love life, are at stake. Be firm in establishing such harmonious and pleasant relations.

MACKENZIE'S Column

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
Russia's renewed demand on Turkey for joint control of the Dardanelles—to the exclusion of Britain, America and other interested powers—raises another dangerous issue to threaten international relations.

There are few more delicate situations in our strife-torn world than this. It is part and parcel of England's struggle to maintain a foothold in Greece in the face of the Soviet's expanding sphere of influence.

And in large degree, John Bull's control of the eastern Mediterranean and the Middle East depends upon maintenance of his own sphere of influence in this strategic area.

What interest has Uncle Sam in that far-off spot? Well, to sum it up in general and non-explosive terms, it's widely held to be essential for the security of the United States and the rest of the Western hemisphere that an equilibrium be maintained in the Mediterranean. The point is that an overbalancing of power there might precipitate another war which would drag Sam in again.

The Turks, who recently rejected this demand which Moscow now has reiterated, have their chins squared and their military establishment is described as on the "extreme alert. Naturally they don't want war with mighty Russia. That would be insane. But they're tough when they get crowded on their own home grounds.

Meantime diplomatic authorities in Washington have said that the U. S. A. and Britain can be expected to back Turkey firmly. This doesn't mean that the Anglo-American pair or Turkey are opposed to Russia having full rights in the Dardanelles. On the contrary they have recognized that the Soviet union should have free passage through this strategic strait. What they do object to is any Russian military expansion into the Dardanelles and any direct negotiations between Moscow and Ankara to the exclusion of other interested powers.

The Dardanelles has seen continual warfare for its control since 1200 B. C. when Agamemnon led the Greeks against Troy near the southern shore.

Because it is narrow, the strait can be controlled by defenses along its shores—and that's why the other powers don't want to see the Soviet union installed in fortifications there.

A Skin Rash On the Hands

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Every woman wants white, smooth-skinned, well-cared-for hands. Even to have them roughened from exposure or work makes her self-conscious and the appearance of a skin rash is a cause for real anxiety. It not only interferes with the routine of daily life but may also be a positive social and economic handicap.

Dr. Norman Tobias of St. Louis, Missouri, has made a study of a large number of patients with various types of skin rashes on the hands. In about four out of ten instances the condition was due to what is known as contact dermatitis and half of the cases occurred in housewives.

Due To Sensitivity
In these cases, the skin rash is due to sensitivity to some substance with which the hands come in contact. Substances responsible include certain kinds of soap and washing powders, turpentine, varnish, silver polish and various ointments. In workers, gasoline, cutting oils, glue, photographic solutions and cement may be responsible.

The skin rash in all these cases was made up of patches of inflamed skin containing pimples or blisters. Later on there was some scaling.

The rash usually appears first on the back of the right hand or over the knuckles. After a time, the left hand is affected, but usually to a lesser degree. If not checked by proper treatment, the rash may spread to the wrists and forearm. As a general rule, when the condition is caused by soap and washing powder, it is usually worse in winter and often starts at the base of the thumb. The rash as a rule, causes severe itching.

Contact dermatitis is usually easy to diagnose by the appearance of the rash and a history of exposure to some irritating substance. What is known as a patch test is helpful in making a diagnosis. This is carried out by applying some of the substance under suspicion to a piece of gauze and fastening it to the skin with adhesive tape.

Inflamed Area

At the end of 24 hours, if the patient is sensitive to the substance being tested, a red, inflamed area will be noted where it has been in contact with the skin.

In treating contact dermatitis when it first starts, some soothing preparation such as a solution of aluminum acetate is employed by the doctor. If the condition has been present for several weeks, ointments containing xeroform, zinc oxide and talc are suggested by Dr. Tobias.

Light mineral oil is used to remove the ointment. If the condition has been present for several months a tar paste is suggested. X-ray is occasionally employed. Ultraviolet light treatments tend to make the condition worse. As a part of the treatment infections in the teeth, tonsils or sinuses, anemia, constipation and a lack of vitamins should all be treated if present.

OCTOBER 5th is an important date

All men who volunteer for the new Regular Army on or before October 5, 1946, are guaranteed the full educational benefits of the G. I. Bill of Rights for the complete term of their enlistment—1, 1½, 2 or 3 years, whichever they choose.

For men enlisting after October 5th, benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights will accrue only so long as the period of emergency exists. Upon official termination of the war, these benefits cease.

These benefits, which include the opportunity to get a full college, trade or business school education, are very important to every man who plans to enlist in the new Regular Army. Be sure you get all the facts before October 5th from your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Station.

Democrats Bid For Labor Votes; Republicans Hit At New Deal

BY H. H. DAUGHERTY
COLUMBUS, Sept. 30.—The overall pattern of this fall's political campaign appears to be shaping up with the Democrats making a terrific bid for the labor vote, while the Republicans making their principal drive against the New Deal.

"We welcome the support of the laboring man" regardless of his union affiliation, "so long as he is a good American citizen" was the invitation for labor support voiced this week by Democratic State Campaign Director Clarence H. Knisley.

U. S. Senator James W. Huffman earlier in the week had rejected Knisley's stand by publicly accepting the CIO endorsement of his candidacy to retain his present seat to which he was appointed by Gov. Frank J. Lausche. At the same time Huffman asserted that his opponent, former Gov. John W. Bricker, was trying to put the brand of Communism on all organized labor.

CIO For Huffman
So far Mr. Bricker has publicly included only the CIO with Communists. The CIO denounced Bricker as being a foe of organized labor at the same time it gave Huffman a pat on the back.

Both Bricker and the Republican gubernatorial candidate, Thomas J. Herbert continue pounding the New Deal, with Herbert contending that his opponent, Gov. Lausche, is an out-and-out New Dealer. Since neither Lausche nor Herbert was acceptable to the CIO, any efforts they might make to win votes from that organization's members probably would be kept under cover. So far Gov. Lausche has ignored Herbert's New Deal charges.

There appears to be little doubt but that each would appreciate all the support he could get from the CIO. Consequently, it is a safe bet that neither will tell the labor organization that it wants none of its votes. It will be interesting to see which candidate gets the most CIO votes.

Democrats will hold their state platform convention here next Friday to formally chart their campaign. Although the list of speakers has not yet been announced, it is safe to predict that Sen. Huffman and Gov. Lausche will be among the list.

Army's New Pay Rates Explained By Recruiter

The new pay rates now in effect make the Regular Army man the best paid soldier in history.

Staff Sgt. Kennedy of the Army recruiting station, Salem postoffice building gave facts and figures today to prove that the additional benefits and allowances available for Regular Army men today add up to one of the world's best jobs.

Discussing a corporal's pay (after three years), Sgt. Kennedy came up with these figures:

Base pay, $1,134; cost of retirement policy beginning at age of 21 in order to receive $185.63 a month after 30 years, $968.42; cost of health and accident policy, $108; allowances (estimate of cost of food, clothing, shelter, $1,000; income tax saving (single), $483. Total, $3,674.42.

In addition to the pay and allowances listed above, Sgt. Kennedy pointed out that the educational benefits, both while in service and after a term of enlistment is completed, are important factors to be considered.

MOTORISTS SHOULD CHECK OWN FAULTS

Are You a good driver, asks Albert P. Morris, manager of the Columbiana County Automobile club? No doubt your answer is Yes! However, it pays every driver to evaluate himself as a driver every once in a while. You might check yourself on these questions.

Has my past record been satisfactory? Do I frequently have close calls? Are my fenders dented from frequent encounters with other cars? Do I know and really obey the traffic laws—all of them? Am I courteous to pedestrians and other motorists? Do my friends enjoy riding with me at the wheel?

It is not enough for drivers merely to possess the physical skills necessary for good driving—the proper mental attitude and a realization of safety responsibility are equally important in achieving accident-free motoring.

Accident rates on our highways will go down—and stay down—only when all of us who drive become dead earnest in our efforts to improve our driving and thus fulfill our responsibilities as modern motorists.

Russia is so large that its extreme east and west points have an 11-hour difference in time.

The logical turtle and the "Small Businessman"

Speaking from experience, the turtle said, "You've got to stick your neck out if you want to get any place."

And his kind of logic is what America thrives on... it makes so much sense to folks who like their independence. Ben Franklin believed in it when he lit out for Philadelphia. So did an ex-G.I. named Jones who started his own small business just yesterday... on a loan, but on his own.

What happens now is his business... (and everybody else's!) His customers wish him success—so he can serve them better. The business men who serve him likewise are backing him up.

For, just as Sohio Dealer Jones counts on the quality and popularity of Standard Oil products to help him succeed, so does Standard Oil stake its future on men like him.

That's how it is with American business, small and large. Each needs the other... and always will.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN Veterans and their relatives have sent in the following unusual questions asking for advice rather than factual information on laws and regulations:

Q—I am in love with a girl and we are thinking of getting married. But we don't have a place to live. Do you think we ought to be married and take a chance on finding a place to live, or wait until we find a house?

A—Winter is coming and it gets cold outside. If you have absolutely no place to hang your hat after you are married, you'd better wait. But if you have some kind of shelter it's up to you.

Q—My husband got out of service six months ago. He has been restless and hasn't worked during that time. He talks about re-enlisting. Do you think he doesn't love me?

A—A lot of veterans are restless these days and thinking about re-enlisting, and many of them love their wives. Why don't you ask him?

Q—My son got out of service early last summer. He still hasn't made up his mind about going to college this fall. He had just graduated from high school when he was drafted. Do you think he should go to college or wait until later?

A—It's likely that circumstances have answered your question already. At this late date most colleges haven't room for any more new students.

Q—I have been receiving veterans' unemployment compensation for the past three months. I am waiting for a really good job to come along. Do you think it would be wise to take a temporary job?

A—If you're physically able, by all means take a temporary job. You can still watch out for a better one.

HITLER AIDES

dolf Hess, who sat without earphones and appeared to be writing something.

Of the four counts in the indictment only the first—that of having conspired in a common plan or conspiracy to commit the other three counts—is common to all the defendants. The other counts charged crimes against peace, war crimes and crimes against humanity.

Dealing with a defense contention that some of the defendants had only carried out orders, the tribunal ruled: "A defense of 'superior orders' has never been recognized as a defense to crime but is considered in mitigation as the charter here provides."

The judgment reviewed the acts of aggression and time after time quoted the minutes of Hitler's secret conferences planning war to show that the Nazi's intentions were clear from the start.

Ruled As Aggressive War
The justices held that the campaigns against Poland, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Yugoslavia, Greece and Russia were "aggressive war."

In discussing the two counts of the indictment relating to crimes against humanity and war crimes, the tribunal listed act after act and said again: "The evidence was quite overwhelming of a systematic rule of violence, brutality and terror."

In dealing with the extermination of Jews, the tribunal cited estimates of 6,000,000 killed under Hitler's program and said the hair of the women victims was cut off before they were killed to be used in the production of mattresses.

The Bonus Marches Begin

Former Marine Corp. Muri E. Owen, at right on top of the car, is leader of a group of veterans sponsoring a march from Springfield, Mo., to the state capital in Jefferson City, where they plan to "camp on the governor's doorstep" until they get a bonus of $400 for every World War II vet in Missouri.

Mayhem Here

A SURPRISE RAID by Indianapolis police on a private nursing home disclosed a number of the 20 patients to be shackled to their beds, as the closeup view above shows, by chains. Mrs. Margaret Colvin, 50-year-old operator of the "house of horrors," has been charged with assault and malicious mayhem. (International)

In Fight for Life

WHILE his mother, relatives and friends were fighting on the American home front to save his life, Pvt. Frank Wallrath, Long Island City, N. Y., is shown in his Tokyo cell awaiting the outcome. Convicted by courtmartial on charges of desertion and escape from confinement, Wallrath wrote his mother he had transferred himself to another unit in the Philippines Campaign and had not deserted. TWO WARS COST THEM THEIR HANDS

DURING WORLD WAR I, Charlie McGonegal (right) lost both his hands. In World War II, Cpl. Ed Terry was similarly maimed. The handless veterans demonstrate their ability with hooks which, McGonegal asserted, are "better than real arms." They are shown with Mrs. Terry at the American Legion state convention in San Francisco. (International)

RECORD ENROLLMENT of nearly 25,000 students taxes housing and education facilities to the hilt this fall at Ohio State university in Columbus. To help care for its veterans, numbering 12,000, the university is erecting a "GI Village." About 3,000 persons, including 342 families, will live in these buildings, expected to be ready by November. Because of a shortage of classrooms, 35 Army barracks have been converted into classrooms seating 70 students. Barracks are painted yellow with green roofs. Navy barracks at nearby Port Columbus will house several hundred students. Men eat at the post mess and commute by special bus to and from the campus. (International)

THOUGH THE FRANCHOT TONES of Hollywood have confirmed they are separating, the man of the house is sure their differences will be patched up. "It's jealousy," says Mrs. Tone, the Film Actress Jean Wallace, when questioned on her reason for consulting attorneys about a legal separation. "I love him, but we can't go on the way we've been doing," she declared. The Tones, married in 1941, have a 3-year-old daughter and 15-month-old son. (International)

Losses By Brooklyn And St. Louis Close Season In Tie

Playoffs Required To Set Up National Loop Champs

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
In a fitting climax to baseball's most turbulent year, the close of the regular season today found the National league without a champion, since the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals wound up in a dead heat for first place.

It is doubtful if ever before so many hectic episodes were crowded into one big league season. Here are just a few of the things that happened in 1946:

The raiding of the majors by George Pasquel's Mexican baseball league; Robert Murphy's effort to establish a baseball union and the narrowly averted Pittsburgh Pirates player strike; resignation of six major league managers; sale of the Pittsburgh and Cleveland clubs; Bob Feller's determined bid for a strikeout record; the Boston Red Sox' first pennant in 28 years, and a record 18,000,000 attendance mark for the majors.

Something New
The Cards-Dodgers deadlock was something new in major league baseball. Never before had a regular campaign ended in such a tie, although the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants were ordered to replay a game to determine the championship in 1908. The Cubs won that regular season playoff and also the World Series.

The first Card-Dodgers playoff game is to be played in St. Louis tomorrow. The two teams then will go to Brooklyn for a second game Thursday and possibly a third Friday.

This means the World Series will start next Sunday, Oct. 6 instead of next Wednesday. Meanwhile the Red Sox will pass the time playing an All-Star squad in several exhibition games.

Neither the Dodgers nor the Cards had the punch necessary to put over the knockout blow yesterday. A victory for either team meant the championship, but the Brooks bowed to Mort Cooper and the Boston Braves 4-0, while the Cards were beaten by Johnny Schmitz and the Chicago Cubs 8-3.

Dodge Nine Winner Over Dodgers 2-0

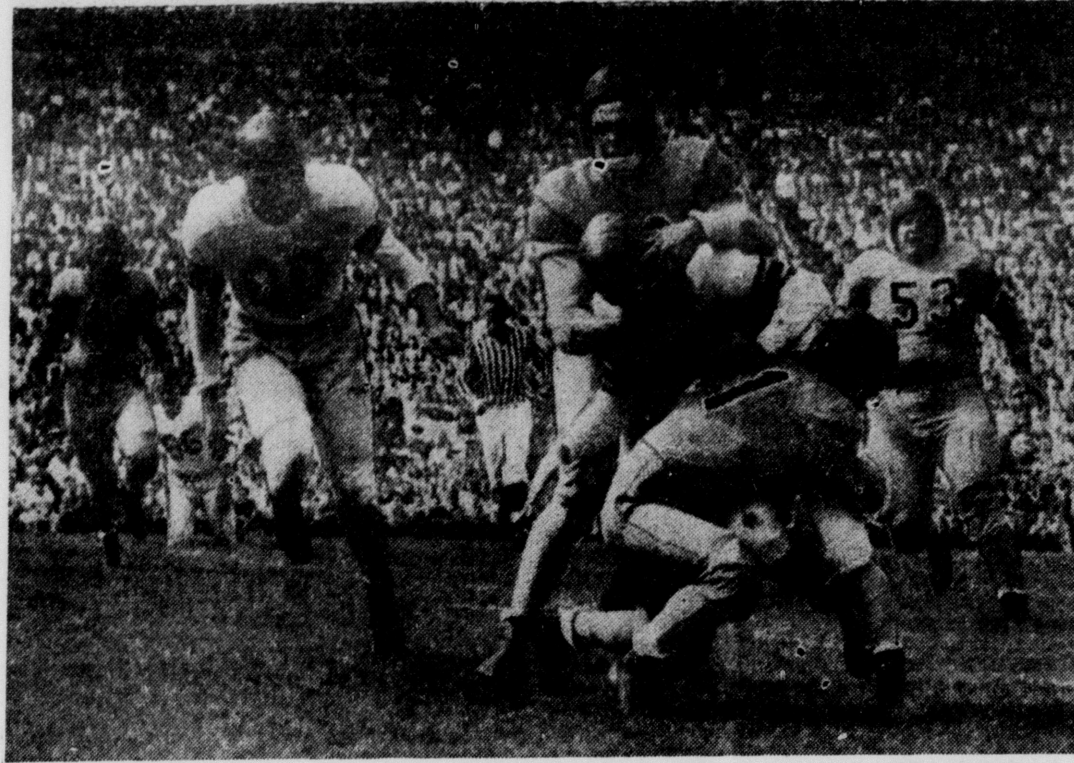

The Altoona Dodge nine wound up a successful season Sunday by defeating their brother club, the Altoona Dodgers, 2-0 on "Lefty" Heinaman's two hits at the Lake Placid diamond.

The lake club punched across two runs in the fifth inning for the only scoring of the game. "Lefty" Smith toiled for the Dodgers and allowed only four bingles, but was not quite up to Heinaman's performance.

Mrs. Alta Greenisen and Bob Buckholdt teamed to win the low gross division of the Salem golf club's Scotch Foursome tournament Sunday with a score of 45.

GRIDIRON GLIMPSES

By DON E. BEATTIE, News Sports Editor

RENEWAL OF THE SALEM-LEETONIA rivalry at Reilly stadium Friday night promises to live right up to the reputation of similar battles have established over the past half decade here—with even more determination than usual on the part of the players and fans that their respective representatives will emerge victorious.

The game itself is an odd one. It decides practically nothing. No district powerhouse will emerge from the fray, no championship will be established by victory one way or the other and there is very little the two schools have in common in any way—besides being located extremely close together in the same county.

DESPITE THE FACT THAT nothing actually comes from victory, except the pride one community derives from beating the other, the rivalry between the fans is probably as hot as any Salem—or Leetonia—has ever had.

It may be good that way—but the facts of the case indicate that perhaps it isn't. Since Leetonia has emerged, within the past five years, as a football powerhouse, the arguments between Salem and Leetonia people—many of whom work together in Salem—have reached proportions that are fast growing uncontrollable.

What started out as a friendly, sportsmanlike and enjoyable contest has reached a tenor that hardly makes for good, clean competition.

IT'S A VERY LAMENTABLE situation today. Both sides of the fence have boosted the wrong way at one time or another over the past five years, but neither is willing to admit it. Establishing which is the most wrong would take a Philadelphia lawyer to fathom, but the situation remains that the peak of the antagonism has been reached this year.

Leetonia fans are determined that the Friday contest will be the last their team ever plays here on the present "home" basis, saying that two years from now, when it's their turn to hold the game again, the contest will be played on the Leetonia field.

It's enough to mention that the reason for this is the recent refusal by Salem High school officials to allow Leetonia Booster football game programs to be sold at 10 cents each in Reilly stadium.

That decision was formally backed by Salem's Boosters club in a heated session last Thursday night. Whether or not the decision was correct and just is not to be discussed here, but it's apparent now that some sort of a compromise on the procedure would have been far more beneficial to the relations between the two schools and towns.

THE WORST SITUATION arising from this dispute, which is actually only a continuation of many previous petty arguments between the factions, is that it gives the Friday battle—primarily the property of the players involved—a bitterness in atmosphere which can't help but be reflected by the players themselves.

The fullness of grown fans—sunnily matured and reasonable thinkers—deliberately, though inadvertently, bringing about a situation of this kind, which will unavoidably effect the attitudes of the players and High school students, is apparent when one thinks the thing through.

If the bitterness can't be eliminated by sportsmanlike conduct by all of the interested older parties, then neither Salem nor Leetonia youths can hardly be blamed by either set of fans for unsportsmanlike conduct on the field and in the stands.

Both towns have and are bringing the responsibility for the unfortunate state of affairs upon themselves and if they continue in the vein they now travel, the Leetonia-Salem game, despite all its color, crowd and thrilling tension, would be far better forgotten and discontinued permanently.

Nothing is worth that amount of discord.

Feller Makes Mark

CLEVELAND, Sept. 30.—In his last chance this year, fireballer Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians accomplished his self-set mission—a new record of 348 strikeouts for one season, bettering by five the listed record set by Rube Waddell of the Philadelphia Athletics 42 years ago.

Besides that, Feller achieved his 26th triumph in defeating the Detroit Tigers 4 to 1 yesterday, and got revenge against Hal Newhouse, who beat the Indian ace 3 to 0 in their previous meeting of the season.

Browns Win 24 to 7 Over Football Yanks

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Sept. 30.—Boasting the only unsullied record in the loop at the end of four games, the talent-laden Cleveland Browns were on their way today to make it a runaway race in the inaugural campaign of the All-America Football conference.

Coach Paul E. Brown's boys swept aside their most serious threat, the New York Yankees, by 24 to 7 yesterday before a crowd of 57,084 in the lakefront stadium.

It was the fourth straight conquest for the Clevelanders, who have piled up 116 points while holding the foe to 13, and the first defeat for the New Yorkers.

Lisbon, Columbiana Win Tri-County Tilts

Lisbon's Blue Devils continued their winning ways Saturday when they swamped Boardman 26-6 on the sterling passing of Alan Weber at the Lisbon fairgrounds.

John Cabot's Columbiana Clippers took the measure of Minerva 33-0 Saturday at Firestone park to keep their undefeated record intact.

Both tilts were Tri-County contests.

Test Dynafuel in your car—see if it doesn't give

Smoother high-test action than premium-priced gasolines

... and you save up to 2¢ a gallon

We believe no gasoline, even premium-priced, can match Dynafuel's incomparable smoothness

HERE'S WHY: ALL gasolines (including Sunoco Dynafuel) are composed of "light" and "heavy" molecules. As the gasoline goes into the cylinders from the carburetor, some of the "heavy" molecules separate from the rest of the gasoline and go to certain cylinders which get most of the "heavy" molecules, while other cylinders get mostly "light" molecules.

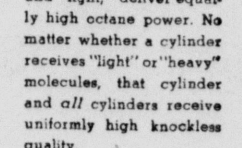

OTHER GASOLINES

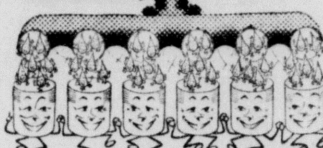

IN MOST OTHER GASOLINES the "heavy" molecules are low in octane quality . . . but the "light" molecules are high octane.

The cylinders receiving the low grade "heavy" molecules do not receive the same high knockless quality as other cylinders.

IN SUNOCO DYNAFUEL, all molecules, both "heavy" and "light," deliver equally high octane power. No matter whether a cylinder receives "light" or "heavy" molecules, that cylinder and all cylinders receive uniformly high knockless quality.

SUNOCO DYNAFUEL

HIGH KNOCKLESS POWER • SWIFT ACCELERATION • UNEXCELLED LONG MILEAGE
